

Tribal and the Learning Innovation Trust

Trust Board member profile – Jim Chambers

Jim Chambers is the Chief Executive of the Education and Technology division of Tribal, the UK's leading educational services provider which employs 900 people, has a pool of 600 associates and is active across all phases of education. Prior to this period Jim worked as the managing director of FD Learning, a market leading provider of MIS systems and learning management solutions with wrap around consultancy services to the FE sector, from 1990 to 2002 before joining Tribal to form the technology division. This was subsequently merged with the education division, a process led by Jim as the Chief Executive of this merged entity. Jim sits on the Executive Board of Tribal Group plc.

In 1993 Jim gained an MBA from the University of Sheffield. He has been married to Barbara for the last 29 years and they have four children whose ages range from 17 to 25 and enjoyed a four year period as a parent governor at his children's large secondary school in Derbyshire. He is an enthusiastic but high handicap golfer and enjoys walking in the Peak District of Derbyshire.